Montevideo, June 26th.
What with the arrival this morning of General Tajes in the Golondrina, of a part of the fourth battalion, and of the Guarda Carceles to-night from Salto, the projected weekly teas or electoral receptions of Don Julio Herrera y Obes, and reports from the seat of war, the air is full of ugly sensational rumors, which I am not permitted to write, and which possibly may have no foundation. The latest of the sundry rumors regarding the return of Minister Tajes is that he comes as a messenger of peace. This I fear is too good to be true. A large number of his personal and political friends went on board the Golondrina to salute him, and accompany him on shore.

Frank Brown and his troupe arrived by same steamer and perform to-night at the Obispo's.
Yesterday's report that the bond for the four million extraordinary Uruguay loan had been negotiated in London, has not been wholly confirmed; but it is said that Government has been able to pledge in London, through the agency of the Bank of the Republic, bonds for two millions, receiving one million in cash, or fifty per cent of the nominal city. Like Charles Lesseps in London, the French Government will not ask for Portsmouth, 26th.—This city is crowded with visitors attracted by the naval review which has commenced outside the port.

Many members of the Houses of Lords and Commons are here, also the Colonial Premiers, Diplomatic Corps, Foreign Consuls, and thousands of distinguished visitors. The Prince of Wales passed the fleet in review, as Her Majesty's physicians advised her not to undertake the journey from Windsor. The 170 British and 14 foreign men-of-war occupy a line 5 miles long, while the steam launches, yachts, and boats containing sightseers occupy another five miles. When the yacht with the Prince of Wales on board left the head of the vast column she was greeted by a salute which the first few men-of-war fired from the big guns on board.

The officers were drawn up on deck, while marines manned the yards and cheered the Prince as the Royal yacht passed down the line. The yacht was followed by a large number of craft with the officially invited guests on board.
The Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers were on board the R.M.S. Danube, which has been armed as a cruiser. The following men-of-war attracted attention for the way in which they manoeuvred:— Empress of India, Hood, Magnificent, Majestic, Nile, Renown, Sans Pareil, Trafalgar, Royal Oak, Royal Sovereign; Protected cruisers Undaunted, Shannon, Min-

A PLAUSIBLE BILL.

At foot we publish the Bill that the National Executive has sent to Congress with a view of shortening legal procedure in mortgage foreclosures in this market. The value of such a bill need not be discussed, as the shortcomings of the present dilatory system are proved by the enormous rates of interest charged on mortgages; it is now a kind of business that is usurious on the face of it and can only be excused by the risks encountered by capitalists. It is impossible to say how the Bill will fare in Congress, whose tendency, however, will be to favor the debtor for this Congressional propensity is too strong, not to leave some impression on the measure. We should say that Article 8 will not get through without a very warm discussion. However, this may be, the Minister of Finance is to be congratulated on the attention he has given to the question. H.E. has shewn on repeated occasions that he devotes his time and his talents to the faithful discharge of his duties.

He is, on the subject of mortgages, a recognized authority, and we may here state that it was owing to his energetic management, and calm foresight that the National Mortgage Bank pulled through the crisis, in which so many banking institutions foundered. The public will watch with interest the discussion on the measure proposed by the Minister. We should say that both Mortgagor and Mortgagee will applaud the Bill; one of its most forcible effects will be the cheapening of Mortgage loans.

Art. 1.—Every mortgagee 30 days after maturity of mortgage has right to ask the judge to order auction of property, presented the deed of mortgage.

Art. 2.—The Judge shall, in the same decree ordering the sale, appoint the auctioner, who will fix the upset price at the sum due and publish the advertisement of sale in newspapers during one month.

Art. 3.—The Judge shall at the same time decree the embargo of the property mortgaged, ordering same to be inscribed in the respective Registry.

Art. 4.—In the advertisements for the auction, one of the conditions shall be that 10% of the upset price be deposited as guarantee, and that interested parties must revise the title deeds beforehand; no claim afterwards will be attended to.

Art. 5.—If the property cannot be sold at said upset price, it shall be immediately set up for auction again without upset price.

Art. 6.—The court can decree police intervention, if necessary, to enable the auctioneer to place flags and sale notices, interested parties to examine the property, and buyers to take possession.

Art. 7.—Once the sale has been effected and approved, and the amount deposited the third day by the purchaser, the liquidation will be made, capital interest and expenses deducted, and surplus if any handed over to the mortgagor. Even before the liquidation the judge can order the sum he thinks convenient to be paid to the mortgagor on account, reserving the sum necessary for expenses. The auctioneer's commission shall not exceed 1%.

Art. 8.—If the product of the sale does not cover the total amount of credit and expenses the creditors can demand the embargo of other property belonging to the debtor, the mortgagor can apply for an inhibition.

Art. 9.—No embargo can be effected on debtor's indispensable furniture or that of his wife and children, nor on the implements or accessories of his trade or calling.

Art. 10.—Only a fourth part of an employe's salary or pension can be embargoed.

Art. 11.—In no case can the negotiation for the public sale of mortgaged properties be suspended.

Art. 12.—The debtor shall not be granted a suspension of sale except on deposit of the amount due, or on proof of the illegitality of the deeds or by prescription, or by the payment or compensation or acquittance, or respite or compromise or renewal.

Art. 13.—No claim against judicial resolutions shall be allowed, except the right of the mortgagor to demand that the mortgagee should, before receiving the amount due to him, give bail to respond for a suit at law to be brought by the mortgagor within a term of 30 days.

Art. 14.—All the expenses of the case shall be for account of the debtor.

Art. 15.—All the clauses of the Civil Code and other laws contrary to this are hereby declared null.

THE CHILI'S MAILS.

London, June 5.

Yesterday the ex-Police Commissary Von Tausch was acquitted at Berlin of the charge of perjury based upon statements made in his evidence at the recent Litzow-Leckert trial.

Lord Selborne was the only witness examined at yesterday's sitting of the South Africa Committee, and the statement made by him was a brief one.
Knowing, as he believed, everything that passed at the Colonial Office, he denied that anyone in the department had any suspicion or idea of the plan of the Jameson raid. Dr. Harris at one interview did commence to impart some information that he understood was of a confidential character; but Mr. Chamberlain at once stopped him in the manner that he had described. Counsel addressed the Committee on behalf of Mr. Rhodes, Mr. Beit, and Dr. Harris. The Chairman announced that the Committee had received the telegrams which had passed between Miss Shaw and Mr. Rhodes, but they had not yet been de-coded.

It was an ideal day for ladies at Epsom yesterday, but the ladies did not grace the Oaks as in the old days. Neither the Princess of Wales nor her daughters were present. A field of eight turned out for the great race. Public expectation was altogether upset, Lord Hindlip's Limasol winning easily by three lengths. The favourite, Lord Rosebery's Chelandy, was second, and Lord Ellesmere's Fortalice third. The Mickleham Plate was secured by Acceleration filly, the Chipstead Plate by Golden Slipper, the Acorn Stakes by Lissa, the Walton Plate by Chapeltown, and the Glasgow Plate by Othry.

Gloucestershire batsmen were seen to considerable advantage at Lord's yesterday, hitting up a score of 326 in response to Middlesex's formidable total of 386.
The University representatives at Oxford did fairly well in their second innings against the Surrey bowlers, but were only able to set the visitors the task of getting 101 to win. Of these 65 were made for the loss of one man. Small scores ruled in the Derbyshire and Lancashire fixture at Liverpool, twenty-seven wickets falling for 225 runs. When stumps were drawn Derbyshire were 154 runs with three men still to go in. At Stoke, Staffordshire defeated Notts.

The delegates of the Turkish and Greek armies met to-day in the Taratsa Hills and drew up a provisional protocol with respect to the armistice. According to this document the armistice will continue until the peace negotiations are concluded, but in the event of the delegates disagreeing on any point, either army is required to give the other twenty-four hours' notice before the resumption of hostilities. Some secondary conditions have still to be arranged, the most important among them relating to the Turkish demand that naval movements should be restricted to fixed limits. The delegates will meet again to-day to remove the difficulties that have arisen and sign the final protocol.

M. Faure will take with him to Russia General de Boisdeffre, head of the general staff at the War Office, Admiral Gervais, General Hagron, the President's new Secretary MM. Crozier and Mollard, directors of the Protocol, and a number of field-officers who are not yet chosen. The latter will go to study, and to give information to their Russian brethren in arms.

The voyage will be from Dunkirk to Peterhof in a first class frigate. The escort will be of ironclads. M. Faure is to reside during his visit at Peterhof. He will set out on July 25. On his return voyage he may call on the Kings of Sweden and Denmark. The Presidents of the Chamber and Senate are not to accompany him. When I gave this news about six weeks ago it was contradicted here. It is thought now more than ever necessary, seeing that the German Emperor is master of the Turkish army, to draw closely towards Russia.

The Stock Exchange had quite a holiday appearance yesterday, and will not re-open for business until Tuesday next.
Though dealings were small, prices were generally well maintained, a feature being the demand for Canadian railway securities. Consols were 3-16 better at 118 to ¼ for cash and the account. The Bank received 40,000,000 gold on balance. Silver remained at 279-16d. per oz.

The Press Association states that there were alarming rumours at Westminster shortly after the assembly of the South Africa Committee, that Mr. Labouchere had been assaulted, and it was further added that the assault had arisen in consequence of the hon. member's action regarding the Transvaal raid. Upon inquiry there appears to be no foundation for this supposition.

The facts are that about half-past eleven Mr. Labouchere was walking across from his residence in Old Palace-yard to the St.
Stephen's entrance of the House of Commons, when he was accosted by a young man, who immediately afterwards gave the hon. member several blows with a horse-whip. The assault was, evidently not a serious one, and according to the statements eye-witnesses Mr. Labouchere contented himself with demanding an explanation of the extraordinary conduct.

This having been given, the senior member for Northampton continued on his way to the St. Stephen's entrance, accompanied by the young man, who had certainly committed what was a technical assault.

On arriving at the entrance to the House Mr. Labouchere passed in without making any complaint to the constable stationed at the door.

The same Agency, in a later message, says that before entering the precincts of the House Mr. Labouchere wished his assault "Good morning."

The young man, who was observed earlier in the day walking up and down the pavement in front of Mr. Labouchere's house, is stated to be a son of the Mr. Brooks, who recently lost an action for libel against Mr. Labouchere for some articles which appeared in Truth.

An exchange message asserts that when Mr. Labouchere asked the youth what he wanted, he replied:—"I am the son of the injured Brooks. I am going to kill you!" The hon. member enjoined the young man not to make a fool of himself, and his would-be assailant thereupon dropped the whip, put his hands in his pockets, and walked across to the House of Commons with Mr. Labouchere, explaining the while the merits of the recent "cause celebre."

The Daily News says that Mr. John Erskine, a Belfast merchant, has offered the Lords of the Treasury a freehold for Her Majesty's gracious acceptance as a site for a Royal residence in Ireland, about seven miles from Belfast, and overlooking Belfast Lough.

LADIES' LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent)

Paris, 5th June, 1897.

The height of the Paris season is the period between the race week at Chantilly and the running for the Grand Prix.
That is where we are now, in addition to being doubly happy from the circumstance that either Spring or Summer, or perhaps both have come to stay. This is no small joy after experiencing all the abominations the weather could inflict since September last. A Dantean influence beyond doubt weighs on meteorology. Let the dead, however, bury its dead. Paris is very full, not only of country cousins, but of the general flock of cosmopolitans, who after participating in all the attractions that the capital can offer, will betake themselves to London to there bask in every pleasure.

Beyond doubt the families who have suffered from the Charity Bazaar calamity have betaken themselves to the country, there to seek a balm for their boreavement. For many this vale of tears will never have either a Gilead oris balm. As a general remark, you never encounter many people in mourning in Paris; the "million" is unpropitious for sighs and sobs. The vacancies in the several Committees of the United Catholic Charities caused by the great fire have been filled up, and the disaster has infused increased zeal into the new office holders. All the money to make good the loss has been obtained. The Comtesse de Castellane, nee Gould, the heiress of the famous Jay Gould of New York, sent her cheque simply for one million of francs.

She was preceded by another Lady Bountiful, for a like amount yearly, to be paid in quarterly instalments; she declined to make herself known, but the secret has leaked out; in forwarding the cheque for the second instalment she signed "Veure Lebaudy." That corroborated the opinion the anonymous donor could be no other than the widow of the great sugar refiner, who at his death about six years ago, was the richest man in France. He was also a great speculator on Change, but for amusement only. His widow came in for her legal share of the millions, but has retired from the world. Her occupation is relieving the distressed. She resides in a very small villa under an assumed name in St. Cloud, whose "curé" is her guide and friend in the distribution of her help. She is so simple that she executes her own marketing and often when returning home, she has been known to hand over her purchases to an indigent, on the Bayard principle. "Their necessities are greater than mine". She hides her piety as much as her charity; when at Mass in St. Cloud church, she takes the most backward of the back seats. Few know who she is, and those who do, respect her privacy.

Respecting the Bazaar fire, a swindler succeeded for a time in selling to selected persons on whose feelings he could impose, fragments of burned books and letters saved from the conflagration as he alleged, and that he offered as melancholy souvenirs to those who wished to buy them.

The police tracked the rogue, arrested him, when he confessed he scorched the papers himself. He was fined 50 francs, the amount of money found upon him, and sent to prison for two weeks.

The distinguished writer and Prince of dramatic critics, M. François Sarcey, after examining all the regulations and Consular laws bearing upon marriage, irrespective of nationality or religion arrives at the conclusion, that the only safe place for a French subject to marry is upon French territory. In the returns of the foreigners who have become French by naturalisation in 1895 figure 8,002 women. The total number of Spaniards of both sexes so naturalised during the past year was 68. One foreigner was immediately naturalised on his demand, having proved he was exiled in 1895 by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. That looks almost like poetic justice. France, or at least Paris, would be all the better for having a more numerous Spanish colony. Its members seem to keep of late very much to themselves, and this is attributed to the continuation of the unhappy events from which colonial Spain suffers. Reduced incomes must affect the quietness of the situation, and no doubt the natural decision, that prominent pleasure is out of season where so much that is sad reigns. Still Spaniards ought to keep not the less a little more to the front in Paris; their place in the sunshine is marked, it must not be abandoned.

The last week in July is fixed for President Faure to return to the Czar's visit at St. Petersburg. He will proceed by sea in order not to traverse Germany. But it is hoped that the German fleet will not come to salute that of France during its steaming in the Baltic. The Empress of Russia is very anxious to have Mlle. Faure accompanying her father; this she could not do, as a kind of St. Senarius law forbids women to voyage on board a warship. Then, were she to travel by Berlin the Empress would certainly send one of her ladies in waiting to salute the daughter of the President of the French Republic. Even if Mlle. Faure arrived at St. Petersburg the Constitution accords her no official rank; she could not assist in any gala cortege, or be present at any state ceremony. It was that situation which prevented M. Faure's lady from joining in the ceremonies when the Czar was in Paris. She only took part in a private capacity. There is nothing to prevent Mlle. Faure accepting an invitation to visit the Comtesse de Montebello, the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg. Mlle. Faure is very much attached to her father, and is of great help to him in the discharge of his arduous duties. It is to continue that behind the scenes role that she would wish to be near her parent in Russia. Personally she cares nothing about the fuss and feathers of Galadom. She is a young lady more English than French in her common sense temperament, and is most simple in her taste, and ever ready to befriend all whom she can.

Mlle. Eliseonora Duse has been warmly welcomed by the Parisian play-going public, and this is the more complimentary since she speaks in Italian. But she so lives her character, is so human, that they are perfectly comprehensible; she lives her personages, and this is a universal language. La Duse recalls poor Aimee Desclée in her extraordinary feminine sensibility. And the stage has never witnessed a second Desclée. That is the best tribute which can be paid the Italian tragedienne.

Perhaps the frequency of toilettes in black and white checks and stripes is a tribute to the recent Bazaar disaster. That said, grey persists in being the most favored color; ranging from the shades of silver up to ash grey. Ladies seem to be a little tired of violet, blue and red, for bonnets as well as for toilettes, hence, why grey is in vogue, chiefly in mohair and silk. Of course silver grey is the more elegant; when a grey presents symptoms of fading, the material can be, if good, dyed. When the robe is in grey, the hat must be in harmony: only the waist belt and the collar, are in a different color. Frocks are no longer worn plain: but very much trimmed. The sleeves continue to be close fitting: a little less of bows at the shoulders, and a little more of lace at the wrists. The collet is still popular, but is a delicious nothing of black silk muslin and white lace, placed at the back only of the neck, descending to the shoulder. The lower parts of pipes are garnished with flounces and niches. Boilews do not cease to please, and are of every shape. The blaise is no longer adjusted to the back, and demi-floating as before, it is "blousante" everywhere, and subjected to every fantastic accessory. Hats are assorted to toilettes, and it is only for promenade, or when visiting, that they are fully trimmed. White veils are in marked favor.

CAMPANA NOTES

THE DIAMOND JUBILEE

Scarcely had the beams of the bright morning sun fringed the horizon with his golden shafts of light on this morning of the 22nd inst., ere the salute of "21 guns" was fired in honour of the day which all true Britons were about to celebrate in commemoration of the 60th anniversary of Queen Victoria's glorious reign, awakening those who had not yet shaken off the drowsy god to the fact that the day long-looked for had at last arrived on which they were to manifest their gladness and their loyalty in doing honour to this, the event of the 19th Century. The following is a synopsis of the day's proceedings which I trust will not prove uninteresting to your readers:—

The morning was bright, and crisp with frost, and was the precursor of a splendid day. Campana had put on holiday attire for the auspicious occasion, and profusely scattered over the town were to be seen floating to the breeze the Union Jack and the Argentine flag, while the offices, and Mechanic's Institute of the B.A. and R. Railway were gaily decorated with bunting and evergreens, the British Ensign and the Argentine flag floating respectively from the four corners of the roof of the edifice. Across the street was erected a triumphal arch from which was suspended brightly coloured lamps, which at night had a very brilliant effect. The band of 20 performers, from Buenos Aires played from a stand constructed for the purpose in front of the offices. It being a general holiday at the Railway works here, where are employed upwards of 500 men, there was a large number of spectators, which added still more animation to the scene.

The rainy weather of the week previous prevented the carrying out of the original programme, and the idea of going down to Otamendi to picnic was given up. But this disappointment proved a blessing in disguise, as a more enjoyable day could not have been spent than that which it was our privilege to participate in. The Reading-Room of the Institute was converted into a large dining-hall, tastefully adorned with flags, conspicuous being that which is dear to the heart of all true Britons. Here was spread a bounteous display of tea and cakes and sweetmeats for the delectation of the younger portion of the community, of whom about 150 set down to partake, and to which they did ample justice. Prior to the tea, athletic sports were indulged in, for which there were some very beautiful, and in some instances, costly prizes provided.

After tea, all adjourned, with their parents and friends, to the Lecture Hall adjoining where Professor Swertgaray gave a performance of prestidigitation and hypnotism, interspersed with acrobatic feats by himself and two children, which, added to the comicities of the clown, who was grotesquely attired and very amusing (though, between ourselves, not a patch on our own Frank), the afternoon passed pleasantly and all too quickly for the youngsters. At the close of the performance, Mr. Pearce distributed the prize to the successful competitors in the sports; and after distributing 100 commemorative medals to the children the hidden mysteries of the "bran-tub" were brought to light, each child drawing therefrom a suitable toy, 180 of which had been stowed away for their benefit. At 4.30 p.m. all separated, after singing "God save the Queen!" the elder portion of the community to meet again at 7 o'clock in the same building.

Precisely at 7.30 p.m. 150 guests sat down to a sumptuous banquet. The tables were placed horse-shoe fashion, being presided over by Mr. H. Pearce, Locomotive Superintendent. On his right was Señor Dozo, the popular Comisario of Campana. The Intendente was unable to be present, owing to illness. Signor Luigi Minetti was also present. The proceedings opened by the band playing the Argentine National Anthem, after which the English National Anthem was sung, which was received with all honours.

At 9 p.m. Mr. Pearce arose and proposed the toast of "The Land we live in," coupling with it the President of the Republic, to which Sr. Dozo responded in graceful terms. Mr. Pearce then delivered a glowing panegyric on her Majesty Queen Victoria, which was most enthusiastically received.

An adjournment was then made to the Lecture-Room, where a programme had been arranged composed of speeches, singing, recitation, interspersed with a similar performance, slightly modified, to that given in the early part of the day, from Professor Swertgaray and his company.

Mr. Pearce was unanimously voted to the chair, and he called upon the respective performers as their names appeared on the programme. Those who helped to enliven the evening—besides the many charming ladies who graced the gathering by their presence—were: Misses Hunter, Barnes, Mine, Ievers, Morton, Brown, and Lawrence. There were other names on the programme, but the lateness of the hour of closing prevented them taking part. Mr. H. Martin gave a stirring patriotic address on the theme of the day, which was enthusiastically received and vociferously applauded.

Before separating—at 1.30 a.m.—Mr. Pearce proposed the health of Signor Minetti, coupling with it the nation he represented, to which he responded on behalf of Italy and the Italians. The band played some selections at intervals, and after the National Anthems of Argentina, Italia, and our own, the assembly sang "God save the Queen," and with three hearty and prolonged cheers, which awakened the echoes of the farther banks of the river Parana, all departed to their respective dwellings with hearty good wishes and blessings upon her whom it is their proud privilege to call their Queen.

I am pleased to be able to state that the four who met with the accident in the early morning are progressing favourably.

Yours truly,

Clontarf.

CHASCOMUS.

DIAMOND JUBILEE REJOICINGS.

On the 22nd inst. the British colony here and a large number of their descendants assembled at the Manse at 11.30 a.m. After the band had played the Argentine Hymn, the Rev. M. Ferguson gave a short address regarding the praiseworthy object for which they had met, alluding to the good Queen Victoria, and her remarkable reign over so many millions of people scattered over the whole world. The band then played the Queen's Anthem, when a juvenile procession was formed, and all marched to the commodious Balneario, a favourite resort on holidays. Here they encountered a strong gale of wind, reminding some of "child November's" surly blast" in their native land. Nevertheless all were thankful: it was the best day they had enjoyed for some time.

All the children gladly received the beautiful Jubilee medals which were generously granted by Messrs Grant and Sylvester of Buenos Aires, and marched with a lighter step with the medals glittering on their breasts, and the Argentine and British banners in front.

There was good cheer and shelter in the roomy restaurant, where abundance of tea and buns, etc., etc., was dispensed to all present. The children engaged in the races very heartily, and eagerly contested, in view of the valuable prizes to be accorded to winners.

The festivity at the lake closed by the company joyously joining on singing the famed national song "Auld lang syne" to the strains of the band.

The day was fitly and pleasantly rounded off by a ball kindly given by Mrs. Robson in her spacious saloons—thus concluding a happy and memorable day in the annals of British settlers in old Chascomus.

RUSSIAN BATTLESHIP LOST.

One of Russia's new armoureds, the Gangoot, launched at St. Petersburg in 1890 was reported by yesterday's telegrams to have been lost in a recent storm, her crew of over 500 officers and men being saved.

The Gangoot was a steel ship of 6,592 tons normal displacement, 278 ft. long on the water-line, 63 ft. beam, and with a maximum draught of 21 feet. Engines of 8,300 indicated horse-power gave her a speed of 14½ knots. She was protected by a belt of compound armor 16in. thick, over which was worked a deck 2½ inch thick. Her armament consisted of one 12in. gun placed forward in a turret of 8½ in. armor; four 9in. and four 6in. guns, 10 quick-fire and machine guns, and five torpedo-tubes. She was very heavily weighted with armor and armament, for a ship of her size, but this apparently had little to do with her loss, as she struck on some rocks and quickly sank.

THE JUBILEE.

To the Editor of the STANDARD,

Dear Sir,

Now that the Jubilee commemoration in Buenos Aires is over, and all are satisfied with the way in which it has been carried out, would it not be allowable for an individual to express what must certainly be the feeling of the community at large, and that is the sense of our obligations to the members of the Jubilee Commemoration Committee for the hard work they have done. At the beginning of their task they were confronted with croaking and grumbings on all sides, but they have shown what a Committee of Britons can do in the way of organizing anything.

Only those who have served on committees know the amount of work entailed, and often no thanks are earned. In this case I am sure the thanks of the community only need utterance, and that all of us appreciate the efforts of the Chairman and of each and every member of the Committee and thank them heartily. Enclosing my card, I remain,

An Englishman.

Lawn Tennis Tournament.

We are requested to ask those that have entered to arrange to play off their 2nd rounds in the above tournament, as far as possible, to-day, as the Committee are very desirous of terminating the tournament on the 9th July.

NOTES AND ANTICIPATIONS.

There is nothing particularly smart about to-day's card, though all the events have filled well, so that the racing will be of the usual level sort. The classic is the 2-year olds over 1400 metres with penalties for winners of previous classics, and as Orange is engaged, if he strips for the occasion, it will be useless to look further for the winner. Kean ran him to a head at their last meeting, and may stretch him again to-day, as he is receiving 5 kilos from the crack, but the latter polished off Balceiro so easily, that it is difficult to suppose anything will get home in front of him. In the first event Rodin if he should win, as he has the pace of Sorpresa. Julius Caesar is supposed to be better than Pompeyo, and if so he can hardly lose the next, though it is whispered that Marat is very smart. Stamboul should win the long distance, unless Merial has recovered from his break-away, in which case he should be very well in with 55 kilos. Idiota is a very genuine candidate in the Mile, as he is in receipt of 8 kilos from Daza. Daine or Avenir look likeliest in the sprint, and Chaipeul in the final, which makes our selections read:—

Imperio Stakes —Rodin.
Gladiator —Julius Caesar.
Montecideo —Orange.
Acacia —Mundial or Stamboul.
Neron II —Idiota.
Florida —Daine or Avenir.
Artigas —Chaipeul.

FOOTBALL.

As no Rugby fixture had been made for to-day, the Buenos Aires F.C. have found it quite impossible to raise two teams for the proposed game at Lomas, most of the players having made other arrangements. They will therefore be no game of Rugby Football at Lomas to-day, and those whom the Hon. Sec. has been unable to advise are requested to take this as an official notice.

LA PLATA

(From our own Correspondent.)

June 26th.

Several convicts at Sierra Chica Penitentiary have been liberated by the Court. The races in the Hippodrome to-morrow are expected to afford splendid sport.
Dr. Rico, State Fiscal, and Dr. Saenz Peña, Assessor, have reported that in their opinion the protest of Mr. Carlos Casal and others against the new tax for draining the Southern zone is null, not having been made within the time prescribed by the law.

THEATRES AND AMUSEMENTS.

The concert to be given in Prince George's Hall to-morrow night by the members of the Lomas Choral Society deserves the support of all classes of British and American Society. Being in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee the committee of the Society have been extremely happy in the programme. Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" or "Hymn of Praise," Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Te Deum" and Sir Michael Costa's arrangement of the National Anthem form a programme, specially suited to the occasion, and that they will all be well rendered is guaranteed by the fact that Mr. J. Hampden Wall, (than whom there is no greater musical enthusiast amongst us, (will be the conductor. The soloists are, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Boyd, who between them, will share the soprano solos, whilst the Revd. E. G. Cocks will sing the tenor music. The choir and band together number some 120 performers. The surplus derived from the concert will go to the National Association of All Charities, the British and American Benevolent Society, and, if for that reason alone, it should be well supported, but apart from the object of the concert the audience will have a musical treat of the highest class.

The concert, held in Scotch Church, Barracas, on Friday last, for some cause or other, did not receive the support that the excellent programme deserved. This is the more to be regretted, as ladies and gentlemen, who give their services in aid of charity, should be better encouraged in their worthy efforts.

Every item in the programme was well rendered, encores being very frequent, and special mention must be made of Miss L. Stalker for her excellent singing of "Afterwards," and "By the fountain." Mr. Grindrod was very successful in his serio-comic songs, but the great hit of the evening was made by Mr. G. Wilmott in his comic ditties "Huff said," and "Now we shant be long." Miss M. Stalker, Miss Diggs, and Mr. H. Jordan also sang remarkably well; whilst Miss Stalker was a most efficient accompanist.

Fregoli's return to the scene of his former triumphs was made the occasion of a grand demonstration at the San Martin last night. The wonderful monologues were greeted with loud and prolonged applause by an audience that filled the theatre in every available part. The first part of his programme presented no new feature, but it was when he appeared in the new piece "Eldorado" that the wonderful powers of the artist became so apparent. In this piece, Fregoli is supposed to be the proprietor of a Music Hall, whose artists desert him at the last moment, and he has no resource but to present the whole of the programme himself. This he does in the manner peculiarly his own. He sings in English, French, Italian and German, he plays many musical instruments, he dances the Serpentine dance, he is a clown, an operatic artist, a transformation artist, manager and secretary. The stage seems peopled with men and women, and it seems absolutely incredible that one man can do all this, and for the space of two hours, keep such an enormous audience wonderstruck and attentive.

Fregoli's performance was proceeded by an Italian Comedy "I misteri del marito" performed by a very excellent company directed by Sr. Della Garcia, in which Sr. Repetto and Mossa and Sres. Migliore, Rodolfi and Della Guardia greatly distinguished themselves. Eldorado will be repeated to-night.

Mephistopheles was given again last night at the opera-house; but met with a cold reception.
The Ferrari, however, together with De Lucia, were called before the curtain after the 3rd and 4th acts.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The sports and pastimes for to-day, readers, are the same old leg of mutton and trimmings and you must know them off by heart by this time. The jubilee week closed as dull as ditchwater yesterday, all people with goods or produce to sell being utterly disgusted with the Gold eagle, whose back-bone seems to have given way completely. The best news of yesterday was the growing wish for peace in Montevideo; and some sixteen deputes have taken the lead in the matter. The naval review at Spithead yesterday was a great success in spite of the sea being very rough. The favorite River Plate liner the R. M. S. Danube had the honour of carrying the Diplomatic Corps on the great occasion. The Queen did not go. The Turko-Greco question of peace is still dragging along in an apparently hopeless state of muddle, and will do so till some Power or Powers throw the drums, fiddles and trombones in the Concert to the three D's and "speak out" to his tricky Sublimity the Sultan.

Wont the unfortunate foreign bondholders of the Queque Province jump out of their boots when they hear yesterday's news? Dr. Escalante and Governor Udaondo have arranged the whole thing. The loan and hungry creditors get $34,000,000 (in National Bonds) in place of their pound of flesh of $55,000,000; and of nation and province arrange the matter between them. Aye, there's the rub—for the former.

Dock No. 4 with its many warships bids fair to rival Palermo as a fashionable promenade; yesterday afternoon it was again crowded by the fair sex who were inspecting the different men-o-war. There was a dance on board H. M. S. "Beagle" attended by a numerous gathering of the English colony. On the U. S. S. "Castine" Captain and Mrs. Berry received. The list of ladies present from the American, English and Spanish colonies is far too long for our columns. We may however mention Misses Domenech, Sutphen, Ray, Bullard, Dacon, etc., etc. interest was excited by the spectacle of the entire crew going through their calisthenic exercises. Preparations are under way for a ball on the 4th of July which will rank as one of the social events of the season.

A proposal has reached us which savours somewhat of an "atentado" on our journalistic dignity. Shall the cry of Old Old Old be heard in our Court? It is suggested that in view of the fact that a great many people have cast-off clothes which they hesitate to dispose of, whilst many poor people are in want of warm clothing, a systematic collection of old winter-clothing should be made for distribution by some benevolent society. It is suggested that those who are willing to contribute should within a stated period send to the STANDARD office a list in duplicate of the articles, sufficiently explicit to ensure recognition. If on the expiration of the term a sufficient quantity of clothing should have been promised the collection would be proceeded with. The collector would take both lists, one of which he would give up receipted to the contributor. The latter might then send this receipt accompanied by 10 or 20 cents as a contribution towards the expenses of collecting, to the STANDARD office. This receipt would serve as a check on the articles delivered by the collector. There is an opportunity for some charitable disposed person to come forward to run the show.

The honourable Senators of the nation no-quod yesterday.
Mr. E. Avanzi, the well known photographer at 1119 Calle Talcahuano, kindly made our museum a present yesterday of a splendid photo of the grand banquet at Funes and Lago's. We have never seen a photo of such a large company come out so clearly.

The 350 Blanco filibusters were at last set at liberty yesterday, with the exception of the five or six leaders. They have paid dearly for their capture of the Venus and Montevideo; but at any rate should be thankful to have escaped the miseries of war.

The commander and second commander of that gallant corps the Argentine Marines who are to take part in the parade on the glorious Ninth will be mounted. It sounds rather funny; but one of our Argentine colleagues says it is the custom in all other countries. If so, whence comes the jocular expression "Horse Marine"? Can any of our naval readers enlighten us?

The arrival of the Chil's mails yesterday put Mr. and Mrs. Barryboth in good spirits, in spite of the chilly weather. We have to thank our good friends Messrs. Galli Bros. and Mr. Charles Mackern for late daily and illustrated foreign papers to the 6th inst. The latter forebadow the splendours of the Jubilee, which had knocked Turkey, Greece, the Hawaiian question, and all other disagreeable things, and persons out of the public head.

Of the two "enfermos distinguidos" about whom our readers are anxious, Dr. Eduardo Costa and Consul Baker, the former was still in the same uncertain condition yesterday, and the latter progressing most favourably.

The great "novedad" at the ball in P.J.H. on Wednesday night next will be the entirely new decoration of the Hall designed by our eminent architect friend Mr. Bassett Smith. It will beat the record; and the ball itself will do ditto. The demand for tickets by Argentine families has been so great that only at yesterday's sitting of the Committee were the last tickets issued. The Hall will scarcely be large enough to hold all the prancers.

The ladies of the Boys' Orphan age beg to thank the following gentlemen for their kind donations:—Barclay, Mr. Jenkins and Co. 2 pieces of calico and 15 doz. thread; J. and J. Drysdale, 2 cases cutlery and kitchen utensils; Mr. Rodolfi, 2 lamps; Moore and Tudor, 1 case kerosene; C. Zander, 10 doz. handkerchiefs; C. Drab-ble and Carlyle, samples, 2 sh. awls and 50 doz. handkerchiefs; A. Frier, 17 pair stockings and 2 blankets; Messrs Tomas Drysdale and Co. large assortment of garden implements.

More Thespian jollification! The B.A. D.C. will be to the fore on Thursday night next in Prince George's Hall. That Hall now in such tremendous demand that there is danger of its wearing out, and becoming prematurely old, the shareholders must be making a fortune, with Gilbert's three act comedy "Tom Cobb, or Fortune's Toy." The cast (not cast) as printed in the programme. We cast the mistake on the broad and cast-iron shoulders of the two P's, the proof reader and the printer is composed of Messrs E. Graham Pilgrim, J. T. Leitch, C. C. Cox, J. A. Warden, and Messrs Mulvaney, D. Graham Pilgrim, J. W. Taylor, S. Francis, W. Kinch, and D. King. Applications for visitors and family tickets should be made in writing, and delivered at the Secretary's Office not later than Monday 25th (28th evidently), June instant. Any applications in person, or at the Secretary's private address, will not be admitted, except in extreme cases.

The "Confederacion Filantropica Feroviarria" request us to return their warmest thanks to the King of Clowns and Emperor of Clowns, Frank Brown, for the benefit he so kindly gave them last week; and also to Messrs Luis and Miguel Ghiglione, owners of the San Martin Theatre, for the share in the receipts, $520, in return for which the Confederacion have placed the names on the list of "distinguished members."

As can be seen by an advertisement in another column, his friends in England are anxious for information about Mr. William Foster, previously known as William Welburn. He was last heard of two years ago in La Plata.

Portraits of Her Majesty the Queen have been plentiful as mushrooms since the Jubilee began. One of the best we have seen is in the window of the well known Tenerife cigar shop 833 Calle Piedad. Mr. Morales Jané was kind enough yesterday to put it on a stalwart peon's shoulders and come with it to our office to show it to us. It is certainly very well done, and reflects very high credit on the artist, Mr. Francisco Bas, who enjoys great fame in art circles as a portrait painter. In compliment to the British community Messrs. Morales and Co. intend to leave the portrait permanently in their window.

Halt! Halt, gentlemen, an you love us. We have made a loyal bonfire of seven eighths of all the Jubilee prose sent to us last week, and the amateur poets in our community now want us to publish their verses. And such verses! No Señores. Neither for Joseph nor the STANDARD. Set fire to the whole lot, printer's devil. There it goes. God save the Queen and deliver her from amateur poets.

What's up now? The Sultan's Jubilee Envoy to London, Munir Bey, has hurried back to Constantinople, without waiting for half the racket, and this unusual proceeding is attributed to some plain truths about Turkey and its Sublime sovereign, which the lord of Hatfield whispered into Munir's ear during his brief stay in the capital of the world.

FASHIONS AND ACTUALITIES

I do not know who denied in my presence the utility of advertising in newspapers, the remark was very apropos because I had just heard of an instance which proved better than that two and two make four, the necessity of advertisements.

A baby was coughing his little soul out, and the mother was in despair. She had tried every sort of drug, but the cough was the same as ever. There were plenty of strong medicines but the baby was really not ill enough. It was only a simple cold, and the mother was afraid to have recourse to them.

A scrap of newspaper inspired her with an idea. She went out and returned a few minutes later bringing for the little sick one a r d box of Seneguala from the pharmacy Fra co-Anglaise in Calle Cuyo. Baby eagerly seized the delicious lozenges, and from that moment the cough disappeared.

You can understand that now the young mother reads most carefully her newspaper—especially THE STANDARD, because the lady in question is one of your countrywomen. This little story—you must not smile, dear readers, because I say so—caused me great pleasure, proving to me once more that my chronicles speaking of the things I have seen may sometimes be of good use to you.

To-day I will begin, not to forget it, by fulfilling a commission with which I have been entrusted. It consists of announcing to you that the Ciudad de Londres will organize for to-morrow, Monday, an exhibition of linen which comprises all sorts of 'lingerie' from layettes and trousseaux for brides to outfits for school-girls and household linen.

We have known for long the cleverness of M. Bru's workmen, but it is true that they find their task made easier by the beautiful models that this establishment receives from Paris and which they have only to copy with that care and finish which give to their work an inimitable cachet.

I am too near Lombardi's to resist the pleasure of paying him a visit. He tells me that it was really fortunate for him to know English, because last week he had worked only for English ladies who were about to celebrate the Jubilee, and all they wanted was that their dresses should each one be more beautiful than their neighbor's. Really, poor Lombardi has a little lost his head with all the different orders he received, and he had to work day and night this last week to satisfy all his customers who were waiting for fete dresses.

The 'robe princess' is the kind which is at this moment the latest fashion, and I understand this easily, because it fits so well a slender figure and for the others—Lombardi is the really find something else which may please and make them appear advantageously.

The great tailor had not yet finished with the Jubilee; he had still some ball toilettes to deliver. And among these I saw one of rose silk, muslin for a young lady, which was really a model of simplicity and good taste.

Once more I have to speak about perfumes. They are here in great favour, but the natives of the country like them very strong, and sometimes their smell is very disagreeable. It is that generally these perfumes are made direct from chemicals and that the odours so produced become stronger on contact with the air, then fade away quickly and vanish into invisible vapour after nearly choking you instead of pleasing the sense of smell. It is just the contrary with the essences prepared by Lenthéric, which are all distilled from the finest flowers.

His factory in Nice could not be better situated for procuring the most exquisitely scented flowers, particularly the finest violet from which he makes that penetrating extract which you may use, and abuse, without fear of offending the most delicate nostril.

to take things as they are, and not obstinately persist in thinking that they can revolutionize economy just because it suits their ideas and circumstances.

According to the telegrams received during the past few days, the United States Senate has been discussing the wool schedule of the new Tariff and making some changes in it. It will be remembered that the Senate Finance Committee raised the duties as fixed by the House; the Senate has cut them down again, to a certain extent. Third class; that is to say, native South American, Cordoba, Valparaiso, etc., wools are made subject to a duty of 4 cents a pound if worth 10 cents a pound or less, and 7 cents a pound if worth more than 10 cents a pound. As the measure left the House wools of class three, valued at 13 cents or less a pound, were to pay 32% ad valorem, and those valued at more than 13 cents a pound were to pay 50% ad valorem. So the duty as now fixed by the Senate is higher on low third-class wools than fixed by the House, although less than fixed by the Senate Finance Committee, and of course the duty of 7 cents a pound on all wools of that class valued at over 10 cents a pound figures out more than 50% on all wools valued at less than 13 cents a pound. Second class; that is to say, Leicester, Cotswold, Lincolnshire Down, combing wools, etc., from sheep not even remotely crossed with those of Merino blood are made subject to a duty of 11 cents a pound in place of 12 cents, as fixed by the House. What the class one wools have been condemned to pay we have not seen. This class includes Merino, mestizo, or mottled wools, or the wools of Merino blood, immediate or remote, etc., etc., as usually imported into the United States from Buenos Aires, etc., etc. That the duties as fixed will be accepted by the House and finally be embodied in the Tariff Bill as it finally passes is not at all sure. The telegrams also say that at a caucus of the Republican Senators held on Thursday evening it was agreed to approve of the action of the Finance Committee in placing a duty on hides, and it is believed that the amount will be 1 cent a pound. The House can be depended on, we think, to fight against this duty on hides; surely the New England members will fight against it to the bitter end, and they number many of the strongest Representatives, including the Speaker, in their ranks. New England may have to submit to a high duty on wool in order to obviate a duty on hides, but these things will all be settled by conference committees later on.

The whole market applauds Dr. Escalante's excellent bill providing summary jurisdiction in mortgage business. In the general opinion it is the most useful project presented in Congress for very many years, and there can be no doubt of its being passed without opposition, as being of general utility, and very practical; it has no feature likely to provoke friction. The wonder is that it was not presented long ago. It meets a want very severely felt in the market. How else explain the fact of one broker whispering demand for money on mortgage, and another, in the next breath, offering to buy a mortgage, whilst the next moment another broker complains querulously "any amount of money to place on easy terms and can't be done." To people not in the swim this would seem inexplicable, but tackle a mortgage and the mystery clears; it is not the property, nor the terms nor the amount, but the manner that is the undoing, and if the signature is not to liking the business drops. The reason is obvious. Once the money changed hands formerly the mortgagee as often as not never thought any more about it, and the mortgagee could cool his heels waiting for his interest or go to law, a very tedious wait, and as mortgages usually go into business to get a fair interest without risk and not to get in the law-courts, of course the signature was the main point. Dr. Escalante's bill changes all this, and will suit both borrower and lender, as if the former is made summarily amenable to the terms of his bond, at the same time this favorable change for the lender must tend to make him more amenable as to rates. Business is thus promoted and the groove made. The Bills means more still. It means a fresh inducement to foreign capital to flow Platewards, and although some people deary this kind of capital, it is none the less capital that should not be made to bear the blame if wrong is applied. We congratulate the Minister, therefore, on his very opportune and practical measure.

The amount of gold withdrawn from circulation to-day was $76,000 dollars. The sale of 2000 old Gas shares after the first hour at rates ranging between 165% and 161% called much attention, as at these prices the stock is dirt-cheap, being actually quoted on the Bolsa at over 190%, but the apprehension that these shares should not rank as ordinary stock because they are supposed to be part of a block handed over to Mr. Charles Bright in connection with the electric concession, seems to have damped ardor, and prices thus ruled low. We understand, however, that the lawsuit has been arranged or otherwise disposed of so that the purchasers of the shares have got a bargain. It should be remembered that the company paid last year 10 dollars per share, being equal to 20%, and that not as a complete dividend, owing to the electric light business appropriating part of the realized profits. The company is furthermore doing a splendid business, has not an unwieldy capital to hamper dividends, and altogether presents a fine opening for investment. The shares, therefore, are more likely to advance than decline.

If the gold tub is not actually rotten, there can be little question of fundamental section being terribly shaken, as prices have dropped in the week nearly 5 points, which at the tail-end of a monotonous month is especially severe. At the second hour the slump was contained, and rates reacted slowly to 280, but they prospect of a further break-away on Monday. The total sold was close on three quarters of a million dollars, which for a Saturday evening is much over the average. Stocks were very quiet, but some round batches of National Cédulas were taken up at firm rates, which shows how the wind is setting. Cédulas also look like mending their quotations, but on the whole there is as yet very little inquiry in this line.

The following is a summary of the operations effected in stocks and shares at the second ring to-day:
